

Continue the story...

It was the third day of the holidays and mum told me to get off the computer and go outside for some fresh air. I grabbed my magnifying glass and went searching for bugs at the bottom of the garden. That was when I first saw them. A group of little people, each one the size of a finger, and I couldn't believe what they had to tell me...

Continue the story...

It was the third day of the holidays and mum told me to get off the computer and go outside for some fresh air. I grabbed my magnifying glass and went searching for bugs at the bottom of the garden. That was when I first saw them. A group of little people, each one the size of a finger, and I couldn't believe what they had to tell me...

Continue the story...

It was the third day of the holidays and mum told me to get off the computer and go outside for some fresh air. I grabbed my magnifying glass and went searching for bugs at the bottom of the garden. That was when I first saw them. A group of little people, each one the size of a finger, and I couldn't believe what they had to tell me...

Continue the story...

It was the third day of the holidays and mum told me to get off the computer and go outside for some fresh air. I grabbed my magnifying glass and went searching for bugs at the bottom of the garden. That was when I first saw them. A group of little people, each one the size of a finger, and I couldn't believe what they had to tell me...